

The Autobiography of Lord Alfred Douglas

Lord Alfred “Bosie” Douglas wrote his autobiography in his late fifties, some 29 years after the death of Oscar Wilde. Since the publication of his first memoir, “Oscar Wilde and Myself” (1914), Douglas’s anger at his former lover had cooled somewhat, but he still took the opportunity to strike back at his many perceived enemies. - Summary by Rob Marland
This recording was originally published on Legamus.eu and was later released on Librivox when US copyright permitted.

Read by Rob Marland. Total running time: 1:02:00

This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org.

Cover picture photo of the author. Copyright expired in U.S., Canada, EU. and all countries with author’s life +70 yrs laws. Cover design by Annise. This design is in the public domain.

The Autobiography of Lord Alfred Douglas